If you come to our store to buy anything in the line of footwear you shall not go away disappointed.

We make it for your interest to come to us.

Our expenses are less than one-fourth what they would be in the center of the city for a business the size of ours (occupying a large double store) and we offer corresponding reduction of price.

The question is: Which do you wish to pay for — Rent or Shoes?

We make our store attractive by selling everything in the line of boots and shoes for men, women and children lower than they can be bought anywhere else in Boston, not excepting the big department stores. If you will take the time and trouble to call once we are satisfied you will be willing to come again, and often. -The adjourned meeting of the South Weymouth Lyceum was held last Wednes is yevening, but as there was not a quornu bresent no meeting was held. OUR BOSTON LETTER

Popular Indignation.

Docque, must go, unless he is em ployed by the commissioners, but while he remains his reign will be a brilliant one, for the program of the aumer as he has planned it was never equalited. The tup lips go this week, but in their place will be found the most marvellous exhibit of vases New England ever saw. Bix thousand rose bushes originally imported from the gardens of the famous rose culturists, Dixon & Sons of Belfast, Ireland, will be set in the garden beds and in a few days will be in blossem, making a scene of bewildering beauty in connection with the pansies, spired jabonicas and great roses of flowering plants. Other plants will follow in their scenes no that from now till the cheriess day of autumn the will be a constant succession of bloom — I beauty.

were said to the rolls as a torsasses time caused him to add his testimony to the fact that he and his road cannot accommodate the public. Of course Mr. Whitney did not intend it that way, there is but one conclusion to be reached from his statement, that "more cars are demanded by the public." As the streets are crowdyd and blockaded now to such an extent that a public protest is made, of course no more cars are wanted, but more and better facilities for travel. The West foot appear as though its indisense would allow any other corporation or system to do it. If the legislature was as prompted and in this matter as some of its result of the state in him with the constitution of the country rapid trainst would not appear so far away.

It is romantic to talk and dream about a garden and the health one gains from working in in it, but romance gets stale after a little while, and instead of digring in the dirt, with the hot sun pouring down upon him, the man who goes out into the country for the summer, sits on the shall yiezza and smokes, after he has had one season's experience the other way. But there is a new lot of enthusists every pear, and there will be for years to come. The joys of amateur gardening can only be learned by sail experience.

Theatrical matters are quiet now although there were two notable productions this week. That of "Rossdale" at the Grand Opera house is pronounced particularly brilliant, while the "Golden Wedding" at the park was as full of fun as a nut of ment. The latter piece is not far from a farce comedy, all gist and apparkling, and ought to go this summer. The regular summer attraction will soon be on and good ones are promised.

A large bar of nusic, all of whose notes are made of flowers, hung in place on the green strings that form the bar, is a new and effective design. Almost any praise song will be suitable for this. A ship of flowers is always a beautiful sight. If one is built on the platform, a tea of green may be made around it, or it may have a platform of flowers on which to stand, the platform being constructed under it after the ship itself is done. The songs, "Out on an Ocean All Boundless We Ride" and "Jesus, Saviour Pilot Me Over Life's Tempesthous Sea," done. The congs, "Out on an Ocean All Boundless We Ride" and "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me Over Life's Tempestnous Sca," are suitable for such an emblem. A large banner of flowers may bear the inscription, "His Banner Over Me Was Love," and may be put together to the singing of "Jesus Spreads His Banner O'er Us," and—

Hand un, stand up for Jesus, Yasoldiers of the cross:
Lift high his royal banner—
It must not suffer Jesus.

As a flower banner cannot be carried about, one of canvas or muslin, edged with flowers and lettered with a stancif or paper letters, could be mounted on a banner standard and carried by the singing children. When it is set in the center of the platform, its base may be beaped with flowers thrown down by the children, to be given afterward to the sick poor.

No, indeed! Cholly—I say, what shall I do to make a eputation that will be of service in Euro-Chappie-Go into dueling and kill your man.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9 1893.

The rapid transit bill was engrossed in the House Tur-slay. Representatives Worthen, Hammond and Graham of this district all voted in favor of the bill.

The trial of Miss Borden feveals some new evidence but on the whole the case stands, in the opinion of the public, much the same as before. Probably seven out of every ten believe the prisoner innocent.

June has given us two exceedingly hot days, but we thank her for allowing the mercury to drop again to a comfortable point. If she will continue the weather of the past two days, she will indeed be worthy of her title of queen of the year.

From published figures of this attendance at the World's Fair for the first month may be deducted the fact that not much more than half the estimated number are attending the fair. The calculations called for $19,00,000 as the lowest estimate of the gate receipts during the fair, but The most pargulah would not now estimate it above $7,000,000. It looks as though someone would lose heavily.

A Successful Year.

The People's Institute clearities its work for the secon last Saturday evening. The attendance during the warm weather does not warrant keeping the rooms upon for the summer months. But the Institute has been well patronized during the past year and has done excellent weat. The young men have used the reading and game rooms quite largely all writer—the evening attendance averaging about twenty, attended and very successful in their work. The Institute was very fortunate in securing two such excellent physical directors as it had during the past season. Mrs. Connell of Cambridge and Mr. Hard of Boston were both very popular and successful. The Institute was usto fortunate in having an ethicient superhiendeds, Mr. Emerson L. Itunk, who will return in the Besides this work the Institute bas furnished at cost-prices the splendid becture and entertainment course which was much appreciated and largely attended. It is also piesant to record that the Institute closes the year with all bills paid. Mr. T. A. Watson has been the financial backer, as in previous years, but has not been called upon to make up any deficiency. The Institute were sufficiently for the running expenses.

Nothing useless is, or low; Each thing in its place is best, And what seems but idle show Strengthens and supports the rest

For the structure that we raise Time is with materials filled; Our todays and resterdays Are the blocks with which we build.

Truly shape and fashion these; Leave no yawning gaps between: Think not, because no man sees, Such things will remain unseen.

In the elder days of art
Heilders wrought with greatest care
Each minute and unseen part,
For the gods see everywhere. Let us do our work as well,
Both the unseen and the seen;
Make the house, where gods may dwell,
Beautiful, entire and clean.

I. I will fill my day with joy. "It is a mely fashion to be glad. Joy is the ace we say to God,"

Time used in doing for others is well used. "Bestow personal service if you cannot give gold." cannot give gold."

IX.

I shall fill my days with "small, sweet courtesies," for I believe that "life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy."

My days shall be fashioned with gentle Epeak gently! 'tis a little thing,
Dropped in the heart's deep well;
The good, the joy that it shall bring Eternity shall tell!

In concluding, all repeat the closing cords of the first poem: Build today, then, firm and sure, With a firm and ample base, And ascending and secure Shall tomorrow find its place.

Thus alone can we attain
To those turrets where the eye
Sees the world as one vast plain
And one boundless reach of sky.

CHILDREN'S DAY SONGS

in this, like him, wo're living who for our sak was poor. We offer now our treasure, and on his altar lay Both hearts and gifts with pleasure on this our Children's day!

Ahl what would the world be to us
If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
Worse than the dark before. What the leaves are to the forest, With light and sir for food, Ere their sweet and tender juices Have been hardened into wood,

Come to me, O ye children!
And whisper in my car
What the birds and the winds are
In your sunny atmosphere.

For what are all our contrivings And the wisdom of your books When compared with your caress And the gladness of your looks? Yo are better than all the ballads
That ever were sung or said,
For ye are living poems,
And all the rest are dead.

Children's June Song.

The Moral Effect of Children's Day.

The custom of observing Children's day with programmes arranged with a view of impressing upon the tender mind the fact of immortality and hope has obtained for several years. The little ones look forward with pleasant anticipation to the Sabbath when they shall be the attraction and the older people shall pay tribute. Beautiful decorations and interesting programmes have their effect upon the undeveloped minds, and every child is better when Children's day—with its garlands of flowers, the string music of a band, the march in the bright sunshine, the soft breath of spring bringing sweet odora from field and wood, all conducing to happiness, health and purity—has come and gone.

In Switzerland Children's day has gained the poetical name, 'Der Weisse Sontag,' or White Sunday, The time set apart is always the first Sunday after Easter, There appears a pleasing significance in this selection. The story of hope that Easter brings of the risen Christ and the awakening spring is in harmony with the general rojoicing of human souls standing at the beginning of life's journey.

Membries of Youth,
Impressions made on youthful mindlinger, like the "seent of the rose, through long years of a busy, perhapsinful, life. Instances are not rare o hardened criminals being brought tosense of their degradation through hear ing some long forgotten melody of their youth. The observation of Children' day can but leave memories that wil sweeten and purify the later life.

Let Children's Day Be Joyeus.

Children's day should be made a joyous occasion to both oid and young.
Religious training is necessary for children, but it should be associated with the bright and beautiful, as the infantile mind more readily grasps the idea of God's love as exemplified by birds and music and flowers and that prepare it for deeper knowledge to come. To My Friends

FRIDAY, JUNE 16 1893.

In the Massachusetta building at the World's Fair is a large collection of ancient articles of dress etc. There is a sachet made of the bine and white striped silk dress which was worn at the court of St. James in 1780 by Mrs. Abigail Adams, wife of John Adams, who was the first minister after the colonies were free, and afterwards president. As Mrs. Adams was a Weymouth girl, this will interest any of our townspeople who may visit the fair.

So rame a telegraphic despatch and this is only one of the many straws that show how the wind is blowing toward nationalism the world over. If the United States does not move rapidly some of the "effect old monarchies" of Europe will get far ahead of Uncle Sam in modern methods of doing the business of the public. People have been so long accustomed to think of Free America as the foremost country of the earth that they are disposed to lay down upon the record of the past, Meanwhile the world is moving toward broader liberities of the people everywhere and it may be possible that these United States may yet have to pattern after foreign countries to secure a full liberity of its people from the grasp of monopolies. There are already several countries that own their telegraphs and railroads.

H. R. R., which we publish today is all improvement for the traveling public. The 6.23p, m. train from Doston meets a long-felt want as it is about right for the many people who are employed until 6 o'clock and who, previous to this, had no train that just fitted their need. The evening train in is also improved by being twenty-flev minutes later. The beach service is good and no doubt will receive a liberal patronage.

A large majority of the people who traval on our railroad have grown up with it, first as the South Shree and later as the Old Colony. The new time table calls attended hands and is now a part of one of the large sir railroad systems in the offurity. And idea may be had of the extent of this system when we say that to make weekly payments to all of its employes, thirteen gay trains will be necessary and their mouthly disbursement will be one and a half million dollars.

The World's Fair will be closed on Suntage, and an outprise party and entertainment half been given on the property of the week took place at the church of himmach half million dollars.

The question of the "old Paritanical Sabbath" that has been so much sneered at had nothing to do with it, but yet those same Paritans who inaugurated a strict observance of Bunday, and who were honest God-fearing men, were the founders of the government supon broad and safe lines, making the America of today possible. It is only by a wide departure from their principles and practices of self restraint that the downfall or ruin of the country can be wrought.

The Circus in Town—Theatrical, Rie.

The legislature has adjourned. The great and general court of the common wealth of Massachusetts for the year 1803 is a part of history. For 187 days it with a living, moving, kicking thing in Boston, and then like a child with the cholers infontum it auddenly turned up and died. The wonderful celerity of its taking away is one of the notable things about its career. Speaking generally it was a good child. To be sure it had its bad days and was at times noisy enough to disturb the neighbors, but in the main it behaved well. I see it is the proper thing just now to praise the house of representatives and extol its members and its work, and to speak in far from complimentary terms of the senate. The latter body is described as almost corrupt, and its chamber as the graveyard around a legislative body? The tendency is to legislative body? The tendency is to legislate to bond, and the bill-killing portion of the legislature is imperatively deri anded. Why only think of it! During its session the legislature, with the graveyard attached, has passed 483 acts and 113 revoires, and of these all but two have become laws, either by executive sanction or neglect. Had there been no kill-killing portiation of a few hundred dellars is considered with a sum of the country there is one had and of these all but two have become laws, either by executive sanction of regiers, and of these all but two have become laws, either by executive sanction of regiers. Had there been no kill-killing portiation of a few hundred dellars is interior correct in the try is superior in his department, and his position in cludes not only road making but street cleaning, street paying, severa, etc.

To look after it all requires an army of men and a fortune annually. According to his last report just filed the total éxpenses of his department were $3,615,660. Of this great sum $2,457,065 TW wont for current expenses and $1,127,85,04 for apecial appropriations. "We ought to have good streets at such a cost," you say, but we do not always have them. There is an nuch complaint here as elsewhere and often it is deserved. It costs a great deal to get a very little done sometimes, particularly when the work has to be done in machine grooves.

It was added that he had two guns and a knife and blood in his eye, and that we had better look out. When we know for sure that a critter is camping on our trail, we feel like having it over with as soon as possible. After dinner we mounted our niule and rode out to meet the stranger. We sighted him while he was yet a mile away. He found us at about the same time. As soon as our mule, knowing what was coming, began to amble and cavort, the stranger grew discouraged and turned tail. Two Ways With Weeds.

Cultivators who have tried both ways know the several advantages of destroying weeds just as they are coming up to the surface. The ground is then rendered mellow and clean with a tenth part of the labor required to destroy large weeds. The crop has not then been retarded in growth nearly to its entire failure.

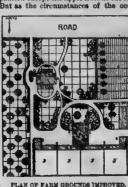

The estimate is made that weeds after growing a fortnight and becoming a foothigh contain by cubic measure 1,000 times as much substance in growth or great difference it is easily understood why they retard or destroy growth. The Country Gentleman takes as an illustration of the foregoing the turnip crop if the weeds are not allowed entrance, the turnips will appear like those in Fig. 1. If the weeds are rampant, the turnips will make no headway and will reamble those in Fig. 2. Late in summer list the season when so many weeds steel a large growth.

Boaton's seat debutants, Miss Maud Hoffmann, knose recent appearance as Juliet at the Grand opers house attracted so much attention, has received some very finttering offers from well-known managers. Miss Hoffman did wonderfully well in Juliet, considering it was her first appearance in public, and with good training abe ought to make a high place for hersoft. Her faults seem to be now largely not become, so to speak. That is, site shows too plainly that site has been trained by an elocutionist. She has all of those faults, but they are tempered by her own concer. Speaking generally it was a good child. To be sure it had its had days and was at times noisy enough to disturb the neighbore, but in the main it behaved well. I see it is the proper thing just now to praise the house of representatives and extol its members and its work, and to speak in far from complimentary terms of the senate. The latter body is described as almost corrupt, and its chamber as the graveyard of good legislation. Did it ever occur to the traducers of the upper branch that there are more undesirable things than a graveyard around a legislative hody? The tendency is to legislative hody? The tendency is to legislative holy? The tendency is to legislative holy and the billikilling portion of the legislature. It importantly dermanded. Why only think of it! During its session the legislature, with the graveyard attached, has passed '483 acts and 113 resources, and of these all but two have become laws, either by executive sanction or neglect. Had there been no bill-killing body what would have been the result?

Out in the country there is often a great deal of contention over the choice of a highway surveyor, and the place is considered very desirable by some aspiring citissas. If the chance to handle an appropriation of a few hundred deliars is considered desirable what must be said of the position of superintendent of streets in the city of the considered seriable said. considered desirable what must be said of the position of superintendent of streets in the city of Hoston? I have already apoken of the miles of streets here in pro-vious letters, but the cost of kesping them in repair has not been alluded to. ABE'S WISH GRANTED

He Found Ua.—Just before noon on Wednesday we received word by telephone from Lone Tree that astranger who lad been hanging around that town for several days and making many inquiries about us had started for this town on a faded and wind broken mule. It was added that he had two guns and a knife and blood in his eye, and that we had better look out. When we know for sure that a critter is camping on our trail, we feel like having it over with as soon as possible. After dinner we mounted our mule and rode out to meet the stranger. We sighted him while he was yet a mile away. He found us at about the same time. As soon as our mule, knowing what was coming, began to amble and cavort, the stranger grew discouraged and turned tail. When we got within 0 rods of him, he vacated his mule and took to the scrub, and while we are no physiognomist it is our firm belief that he was a badjy frightened man. We also dismounted and ran him for a mile, but he seemed to have an electric motor in each boot. We brought his mule into town with us, but no one can identify the beast. He looks like a Mormon mule, but may have come from the Bad Lands of New Mexico. We shall

A correspondent in The Farm Journal says: "It may be worth while to take the trouble to brush peas for the sake of having some really good chee like the old Champion of England or the Tolephone. The brush should be 5 feet tall for the former and 4 feet for the latter."

Horsoradish, which is appetizing and wholesome, can be had for years from one planting.

The following wonderful statement tent us by O. B. Carpenter, Druggist, East B., Epocar, East Dana Haunapaullia CO.:

three awith number and then come back and kick because our firm ham't yet begun the manufacture of an electric ring to knock our fever and ague and straighten a pair of bowlegs and grow hair on a bald bead at the same time!"

Two Ways With Woods.
Cultivators who have tried both ways know the several advantages of destroying weeds just as they are coming up to the surface. The ground is then rendered mellow and clean with a tenth part of the labor required to destroy large weeds. The crop has not then been retarded in growth nearly to its entire fallows.

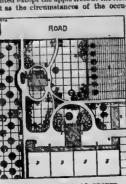

The estimate is made that weeds after growing a fortnight and becoming a foot high contain by cubic measure 1,000 times as much substance in growth or more than when first making their ap-

PLAN OF FARM GROUND STREOVED, pants improved they wanted something letter, and they finally concluded to re model according to this definite plan. I will be well to notice the joints sough in making this plan. In the first place the bearn was moved to the rear and placed so as to be nearly out of sight from the road. It is placed so far to the right of the drive that no unpleasing views are obtained by that means. Then it has enough trees planted between it and the road so that it is concealed almost comnough trees planted between oad so that it is concealed almost oad so that it is concealed almost that from view. The cattle sh pletely from view. The cattle sheds a 8 and the yards at Y are also hidden. A the same time these trees make a fin background for the smaller decoration the same time three trees has a subscignound for the smaller decorations of the yard in front.

In the foreground are planted chiefly smaller shrubs, which do not hide the trees back of them. There is a large open space for a lawn in front of the house too. The vineyard and vegetable garden are located at E on the right and the orchard at the left. The walks from the house to the barn and to the road are sufficiently direct. The plants is in many ways a good one. In remodeling an old place the desired effects cannot be secured so well as though a good plan had been made in the first place. This plan will bear careful study and will no doubt furnish suggestions for those who want to make their places attractive.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

To insure the finest cake, the most wholesome food, be sure that no substitute for Royal Baking Powder is accepted

Nothing can be substituted for the Royal Baking Powder and give as good results:

OUR BOSTON LETTER.

Uncertain Feeling In Business Circles Works Injury.

tion with a real estate man of large experience recently I found him fully obsarged with catamity. He had aummer cottages that were not reuted and property for sale for which nolvely appeared to exte. His view of the situation, to use his own language, was this: Boston has in the last few years had a real estate suburban boom. A company of men would buy a track of land, cut it up into lots, give it a high sounding name and sell the lots on the installment plan. Men of limited means bought most of them and hoped to ave enough from their earnings to secure in the end a home.

The kira was a good one if times continued prosperous, but now times are harder and wages on the decline. What is they continued prosperous, but now times are harder and wages on the decline. What is the result? Simply this, that in the next two or three years these lots will be throw anyon, the market, the money poor men pand will be lost to them and the effect will be bluf for all real estate holders who are not out of debt. I expect to see a return of the real estate depression of a few years ago, when some men supposed to be well to do lost their all because unable to meet interest accounts and tax bills.

Summer styles are now out in all their siver. Boston is a good place for those not to style and also a good place for those not to style and also a good place for those not to style. Almost snything goes in the way of dress. What I mean is that so long as a man dresses neatly there is but very little said shout it. Of ocurse it is well to have stylish clothes, but so long as one has clean and whole ones there is no need of being obliged to court alleys and back streets. A good story is told by Dr. Robertson Nicol of the late Sir Henry Moncriel. The litter had a parrot which was always present at family worship. In the morning Sir Henry followed the old Ecottiah custom of singling the metrical version of the Psalims straight through, two verses per day. The 119th psalim of course took many days, and he ailways commenced by saying, "Jet us sing in the 16th psalim."

WHITE LEGHORNS.

The Most Popular of the Pure White Foute Among the Smaller Broods. The Leghern fowl, be it brown, black or white, is deservedly popular espe-cially where eggs are the chief object in view. Here are some statements made concerning White Laghorns by Webb Donnell in Country Gentlemen, from which the attractive illustration here given in a reprint. He says:

The White Laghorns, so far as can be inown, are strictly thoroughtred, while their numerous cousins of the same name have been "made" by the admixture of the blood of other hreeds of fowls. Thus he Browns are indebted to the blood of the Black-Rad Game, the Partridge Cohin and the Black Stantish for the some quarters that White Legherus are more prolific oven than their colored relatives in the matter of egg production. On this point Mr. Donnell is sure that at least the White variety is not surpassed by any fowls in the matter of filling the egg backet, and with them the highest record for productiveness has been made. He says:

Special purpose animals are at the front now for profit, and poultry is no exception to the rule. Leghorus can be made to pay a larger profit on eggs alone, if proper care and shelter be given them, than any general purpose fowl will pay on both eggs and meat, and the reason is not far to see. The eggs which an early hatched Leghoru pullet will lay in September and October at the excellent prices which prevail at that season give that fowl a big start in outstripping her larger but more slowly maturing sisters.

The Leghoru will also lay as many eggs during the winter if given perfectly warm quarters as her larger sisters, but it is at this point that so many who keep Leghorus fail. Moreover, the Leghoru will lay a large number of eggs in the spring and summer, when larger fowls are persistently endoavoring to assume maternal cares.

is over, and so that an increased period of egg production can be secured for the pullets. One thing should be kept prominently in mind by those who are keeping large numbers of Leghorns for profitable egg production—a strain should be secured that lays large sized eggs, and this trait should be kept up from generation to generation by breeding only from hens that lay eggs of generous size, for such will command readier sale and better prices in the market.

Manuring For Tomators.

W. D. Atwood, writing from the Virginia station, advocates manuring in the hill for tomators. He fertilizes, as a rule, with compost around the plants as soon as transplanted, and by this secures heavy crops of fine fruit, When he has no compost, a small quantity of chemical fertilizer is used in the hills, but it is thoroughly locel in before setting the plants; otherwise it would burn them up, tomatocs being very tender in this regard. Applying compost around the plant gives the most satisfactory crop blus ever grown. It is the custom in his section to fertilize in the hill, and no one complains of, small tomatoes thus produced.

By a strictly literal interpretation of the fourth verse of the nimeticit pestim it was supposed that a day of God was artistically equal to 1,000 years; hence the six days of creation were understood to indicate that the earth would pass through according equal to 1,000 years of isbor and suffering, to be followed by a seventh day—that is, 1,000 years of rest and happiness. In the book of Revelation this view is presented. Still the rabbinical traditions differ widely among themselves as to the duration of the happy period.

The "nixy" of Germany has by some been supposed traccable to "Old Nick."
But this is not probable, since 8k. Nicho las has been in patron raint of sailors for many centuries. It was aluring the time of the crusades that a vessel on the way to the Holy Land was in great peril, and St. Nicholas assuaged the tempest by his prayers. Since then he has keen supposed to be the protector of mariners, seen as Neptune was in ancient times.

The German "nixy," says All the Vost Round, was no doubt a later form of the old Norse water god, Nikke. You meet with him again in another form in Neckan, its soulless. The "nixy" along the failtic coast was once, however, much feared by the failstenen. It was the same spirit which appears as the kelple in Scotland—a water demon causing sudden floods to carry away the unwary. Generally speaking, however, nixies may be described as descendants of the nainds of ancient times, and as some what resembling the Russiam rusakus, of which the peasantry live in so much dread. Curious Bibles are certain relitions of the Beriptures which are distinguished by peculiar errors of the printers or some strange their owned by the translators. Among the more famous of these is the Breeken Bible, printed in 1800, in which occurs. "Then the ries of them both were opened and they knew that they were naked, and they sewed figge tree leaves together and made themselves breches." -Genesie lid,?

The Placemaker's Bible printed in 1801 gained its name from "Hiesead are the placemakers, for they shall be called the Vinegar," Instead of "The Parable of the Vinegar," Instead of "The Parable of the Vinegar," instead of "The Parable of the Vinegar," appears in the chapter heading to Luke xx in an Oxford edition of the any thorized version which was published in 1111.

Hack Hyed Susan.
The popular ballad of a century or mage, familiarly known as "Black Ey Susan," was written by John Gay. this ballad "Sweet William," a sailor, the farewell to the disconsolate Susan with black eyes. He assures her:

The uneasy agitation in the money centres and the frequent heavy failures are and symptoms. A short time ago the country was enjoying an almost unparelled prosperity. What is the cause of the sauden change? An extra session of Congress is called for and the repeal of the Sherman and is vigorously urged as a remedy. On the other hand, able tinanciers claim that the trouble rests largely in the fact that there is not money enough to do the business of the country and that the gold standard will not longer suffice for the needs of the people. Let us hope that Congress will be quickly convened and the aguestion discussed without partisanism 56 that the wisset methods for averting a general financial panic may be taken as soon as possible, if indeed the remedy lies within the power of Congress, which perhaps may be doubted, as the fact of a general over-production in many lines of business is thought to be somewhat responsible for the reaction. Whatever the cause, the situation is serious and to be deplored.

Perhaps nowhere is there more marked interest in education than in Weymouth For the past few years that interest which was formerly great has steadily deepened and strengthened until now it seems as if there is nothing the people are not willing to do for the public schools of the town. Although Weymouth is not as wealthy a is nothing the people are not withing for the public schools of the town, ugh Weymouth is not as wealthy a as some it is to the credit of her peonat she is extremely liberal in school priations and that money is not wantfor educational purposes. The evito of the wise expenditure of their y has been shown to the citizens who attended the graduations this week, almination of the year's work has witnessed by crowded andlences and oble fruit of the well directed and rited efforts of the teachers and the instant of the graduations that we have the second of the second busiastic and earnest endeavors on the tof the pulpils has been evident to all. s encouraging to look forward to still It is encouraging to look forward to still another year's progress. Weymouth's achools are well in the front ranks of the towns and cities of the grand old state of Massachnetts, the state that boats more free libraries than all the other states of

The school board held a meeting last Friday evening with all members present to be called for governing the board that was referred to a sub-committee at a previous meeting, in relation to making the superintendent secretary of the board, but without vote, was passed. meeting, in relation to making the superintendent scretary of the board, but without vote, was passed.

If was voted that the new rules in regard to conducting meetings and the above amendment making the superintendent the scretary shall not take seep.

A Cushing, who has ally served as secretary for some years will have the honor of signing the diplomas. The change is made on account of the added work the secretary will hence forth be called upon to perform under the new rules and also because under the action of the town imitting the pay of the committee, there is no way of paying a member for the work.

Figure 10 of the first own of inspection which called for pupwards of $5,000 to put the school property in good condition. The different recommendations were taken up in detail and after much discussion, in view of the limited funds available, the total amount was cut down to about $1,300. The matter of a new heating apparatus for the Hunt school at a cost of $1,200 and the school was taken up and as there are no funds available, on action was taken except to order the superintendent to see the state board of policinapection in regard to the condition of that building's beating and ventilating plant.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

To-day the woman who cuts, fits and makes the wrappers and waists she wears is about as scarce as the man who goes to Frisco around the Horn. It's a vaste of time and money in both cases. The DOMESTIC WRAPPER bought ready-made, will wears is about as scarce bought ready-made, will fit you better, last you longer and cost you less than any home-made garment you can get up. This is because a large force of skilled workmen have been busy every day for years learning how to do this thing. The result is a perfect wrapper—the DOMESTIC WRAPPER -and it gives perfect satisfaction to all.

Taylor compiled. Then the professor gave a tug at a cord attached to a valve, and the balloon began to descend, rapidly at first, but more steadily and slowly as the denser atmosphere was reached.

Ten minutes later they were safe on earth once more, in a field half a mile from Refer's hotel. Every fishabitant of Riverside who had not gone to Carrotton was on hand to velcome the two navigators of the air, and all those who that morning had lamented their inability to attend the balloon ascension now congratulated themselves and assured each other that it was infinitely more exciting to see a balloon one down than to see one go up.

Dr. Taylor did not stay to receive the plaudits of the crowd for his courage in making the trip with Professor Reefer. Ten minutes after he jumped from the car of the balloon at the risk of his life he stood suce more in the presence of Mabel Gray.

Her happy eyes ought to have told him how jogful to her was his return. But he could see nothing except the picture of that black spot, which was even then so rapidly bringing his rival to her side.

"Mabel, you must choose now and for all time between me and Van Brundt," he blurted out in hot preoplisancy. "There can be no other choice and must be no hestation."

"Detor, have you gone mad?" exclaimed officer outs a mass procession of the control of the choice and must be no best itation."

"Dector, have you gone mad?" exclaimed the girl, looking at him with a baif fright eneel expression in her eye.

"Not yet, but I may. I know that Van Brundt is not his name," he panted. "I also know that he is Raymond Bradley, an indicted thef. Now will you choose?"

She grew pale to the lips, caught at the back of a chair for support and tried several times to speak before the words came, scarcely louder than in a whisper:

"Yes-I-will-choose. It is the-the-indicted thief. You had better go."

It was his turn to grow pale. Could he believe his cars? Did she then know of the man's crime and yet prefer him?

As he stood there trying to pull himself teyether, lasty footsteps were heard outside. A moment later a man's form darkned the doctowny. There was a half scream from Mabel. She uttered oneword and flew to the nam's arma.

"Frather!"

"Mabeli"

"Is it good news!"

"The best. The thief 'scaught, and he has confessed. Our name is once more honored.

Dut ever a man before have such a rice for a sweetheast, I wonder?" remarked the doctor.

Our Greatness and Growth.

The greatness and rapid growth of the country are material for oratory on every Independence day, but the bare figures are aloquent. At the first estimate after the Revolution the weslith of the United States was set at 600,000,000; it is now about $60,000,000,000.000, in crease of a hundredfold. The population nine years after the fighting coased (1700) was $1,000,101; this year it is certainly 60,000,000 an increase of nearly seventeenfold. Thus the wealth per capital is five or six times as great as in 1700.

Still more gratifying figures might be presented as to manufactures and commerce, but these are, after all, the indices of a material growth. What of the mind and soul, the social cohesion and moral evolution? In these lines the estimate cannot be made as exact, but the advance has certainly been great. Immigration alone keeps down the percentage in education. By the multiplication of colleges and perfection of school systems the native population has ateadily and rapidly advanced. The growth in churches and escicities for moral growth is equally encouraging.

In contrast to these sleek-looking personages can be found many of both sexes who have that wan, half-starved appearance that indicates poverty and want. Thousands of cases of destitution can be found within our city limits, and the faces and forms are in evidence in many portions of the city. The casual or occasional visitor does not see them. He only looks at the well fed and goes away saying "What a city of fat people Boston is."

When the lank was robbed, circumstances pointed so strongly to him as the culprit that conviction and state's prison accessed almost an assurance if he stood trial.

By the advice of close friends, who believed him incapable of the crime, he placed himself whelly in the hands of a shrewd private detective. It was this man who had sent Mrs. Bradley and Mabel to the seculation of filverside, where Mrs. Bradley and who had sent Mrs. Bradley and Mabel to the seculation of filverside, where Mrs. Bradley assumed her maiden name.
